Audiology News

Have you ever noticed how peaceful the world seems after a good snowfall? That's because snow absorbs sound! Snow is made of ice crystals, which have space between them. These open spaces absorb sound waves, creating that serene quiet that happens right after a snowstorm. If you are interested in having your hearing checked, Kyle or Giselle can help!

Upcoming Plans

For the past few months we have been doing therapy with students in schools and in the clinic by splitting the year into two programs. As we are midway through our second program, we have found a rhythm that seems to be working for everyone and we have appreciated everyone's patience as we work out the details!

In addition to speech and language therapy, our clinic is now able to offer DIR Floortime as a service offering, both as direct therapy and through a caregiver coaching model.

We are also excited to be partnering with LDAY Centre for Learning this summer to offer summer camp programming. If you are interested in learning more about our offerings (registration opens March 20, 2023), please contact Angela at angela@borealclinic.com.

We Care

With a small business that keeps growing to respond to needs, we always go back to our common touchstone—we do the work we do because we care.

We care about each phone call and email we receive. We care about every client we are privileged to work with, whether at a school, the hospital or in the clinic. We care about our staff. We care about our community.

"Caring for others is an expression of what it means to be fully human" ~ Hilary Clinton

Clinic News

Boreal Clinic has a diverse team that allows us to offer flexible options for the clients we work with and to provide support in a caring and responsive way.

Sara Van Ruskenveld, a Speech-Language Pathologist from Inuvik, has joined our team to support training of therapy assistants and to offer zoom sessions for clients.

Liza Manolis, social worker and clinical counselor, has partnered with Boreal Clinic to set-up a counselling practice that is a safe, inclusive and healthy space to support folks on their journey.

"It's important to make sure that we're talking with each other in a way that heals, not in a way that wounds."

~Barack Obama
